■ Sales by segment

| Condiments Products | Overseas sales increased further and domestic sales of mayonnaise were firm, leading to higher  revenue. |
| :--- | :--- |
| Egg Products | Revenue declined due to a downturn in the hen's egg market in the US and Japan, but value-  added products were solid performers. |
| Delicatessen Products | Revenue increased due to a merchandise transfer from the Processed Foods business and an  expansion into new sales routes, such as home delivery and restaurants. |
| Processed Foods | Revenue fell due to the merchandise transfer to the Delicatessen Products business, but sales of  baby foods and others were strong. |
| Fine Chemical Products | Revenue fell due to a decline in shipments of EPA for medical use, but sales of hyaluronic acid  were solid. |
| Distribution System | Revenue fell due to a decline in existing transactions resulting from changes to the distribution  system of business partners. |

| Condiments Products | Income rose due to cost improvements, in addition to the effect of higher revenue. |
| :--- | :--- |
| Egg Products | The downturn in the US's hen's egg market pushed down the income, but income rose due to price  revisions in Japan and growth in value-added products. |
| Delicatessen Products | Income rose due to higher income resulting from sales growth and cost improvements. |
| Processed Foods | Income rose due to the growth of value-added products and the review of unprofitable products. |
| Fine Chemical Products | Income rose due to improvements in raw material procurement costs and growth of hyaluronic acid for  medical use. |
| Distribution System | Income rose due to the streamlining of storage and transportation, in spite of the decrease in existing  transactions and higher costs attributable to the operation of new bases. |

* In fiscal 2015, adjusted figures for the impact of changes to accounting standards for recording net sales have been applied.
